Hi Ajay,

unfortunately with the new version of Geant4 it isn't possible to simply copy the files to geant4 source directory. The geant4 installation process always tries to download the files from the web server.

The solution for you is to switch of the automatic installation of the geant4 data files and download them as you already did. After this step you have to copy them to the right position and unpack them.

Since you don't install the external packages into an installation directory you have to create the following directory in the geant4 directory

mkdir   share/Geant4/data

Move the downloaded data files into this directory and unpack them. This should do the job.

Ciao
