Subject: Re: FinishTask() funktion for uninitialized Tasks -> Bug or feature?
Posted by Dominik Steinschaden on Wed, 18 Jan 2017 14:42:16 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

ok I see that there is maybe sometimes a point in having the finishTask called even in such a case, ok.

so thanks for the answer.

I will just rearrange my Init() function. My plan was to first do the checks and if everything goes fine then all needed variables are initialized. therefore if the checks fail, the variables are not initialized for the finishTask()

Just wanted to save resources . . .