Subject: Re: DataFlow

Posted by Pablo Genova on Mon, 15 Oct 2007 09:28:14 GMT

Hi Tobias,

sorry for the stupid question, but what exaclty is the difference between the box and the cylinder in the diagram?

If I understand, the diamond (rhombus) means question, conditional statement, while in the old flow charts there was the parallelogram for input output, rectangles for processing steps, but maybe there are many conventions which I do not know.
This just to produce a consistent diagram for the STT part.

thanks in advance, Pablo