Dear all,
indeed, by running 1000 events with the macro

full_emc.C

the application crashes with a same/similar error. I fixed the bug and tried to check in the new code. But it seems that I am not allowed to commit anything. What is the reason?

In addition I would like to get back to Marc's question. It's also not clear to me how one can exactly reproduce the same bug. Which tools are available for this? Is it possible to start the application directly with the event where the crash has been observed? This would help to debug the code in an very easy way.

Thanks in advance for your help and best regards, Bertram.
