Dear panda MC users,

I would like to study the effect of different beam profile or certain interaction point.
I think that there is no way to study such kind of feature in the box generator.
Does anyone have some experience of implementation for beam profile or different interaction point in the generator level.
Then could you give me some comment what I have to care and where do I can find good reference in pandaroot framework.

Thank you very much