You have to copy the file macro/pid/Geane.C into gconfig folder.

If you have again the crash, try to decrease a bit the param for air (do not touch PWO).

This is just a trick, waiting for the final fix of the original fortran code (there is somebody working on it). Once the fix will be released, you will have to use the "official" Geane.C, but for the moment try with this fix.
