Subject: Tutorial session on next collaboration meeting?

Dear all,
there is the possibility to have an analysis tutorial session on Friday morning, h: 9:00-11:00, in parallel with the Collaboration board.

Since Klaus will give a "tutorial talk" during the computing session, the talk and the wiki page could be used as starter for analysers, with the close support of experts.

In this sense, I would like to ask you who could be interested in following such "tutorial session", and who could be available as "expert" to hep and follow the others. Since me and Tobias will be most probably in the collaboration board, the help from other experts could be very appreciated!

If we reach a good "critical mass" number of followers and experts, I could ask for such time slot.

Please answer as soon as possible.

Will such a session be aimed at complete beginners or more advanced analysts?

Furthermore: Would it be possible to have this tutorial at a different day? Our workgroup planned to travel back on Thursday. I believe this could be similar for other workgroups.

From the agenda I believe this is the only available time slot. This is the reason why i am asking if there will be enough people.

About "beginners" or "advanced" analysists... well, I suppose the toturial will follow the scheme if the tutorial wiki page, but advanced users can raise their questions personally w/o using the forum
