

---

Subject: Bug reporting

Posted by Stefan Pflueger on Mon, 07 Jul 2014 08:33:30 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Hello,

my question is regarding my/our general bug reporting style. One of my first bugreports I filed within trac, but since I didn't receive any feedback, I eventually switched to the forums. However now I sometimes miss when someone else reports a bug within my code since I do not get any automatic email notification (and I visit the forum rather frequently). Also bookkeeping and other features are missing. Is there another platform for bugreporting being used that I am not aware of? It think it would be really nice, if we could use trac or whatever else we have available more frequently (and eventually only). At the moment I have the impression, that we are merely using the forums for bug reports...

Best regards,

Stefan

---

---

Subject: Re: Bug reporting

Posted by Stefano Spataro on Mon, 07 Jul 2014 08:39:01 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

The trac, which is not used anymore (now there is redmine), is only for fairbase/fairroot bugs. For pandaroot the forum continues to be the standard bug report method.

---